

As the initial funding was provided by the German Research Foundation (DFG) the DFG's rules for funding continue to apply:

- The submitting author ("corresponding author", "submitting author" etc.) is a member of the University of Bremen. Members of Bremen universities of applied sciences and affiliated institutions with a different funding body are not eligible.
- The journal in which the content is to be published offers true Open Access, i.e. the online contents must be accessible free of charge and without restrictions. So-called hybrid journals are not eligible, as they offer paid subscriptions and on top give authors the option to pay extra fees to turn their paper into open access.
- In order to maintain scientific standards and quality, the journal must subject submissions to peer review by distinguished scholars of the field.
Publications in so-called predatory journals will not be supported

Extracted from: <https://www.suub.uni-bremen.de/home-english/refworks-and-publishing/open-access-in-bremen-2/> (last access on 17.01.2019)